

Domus Volunteers - Fall 2012

Volunteers Come in All Ages

Dear Mr. Hyman,

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to teach [Chinese] at Domus. The kids' enthusiasm and energy, as well as their natural curiosity and their perseverance, made teaching at Chester Addison a joy. The experience was a meaningful one for me, and I am very grateful to you for that.

Gabe Groz, age 14

Flight of the Literate Bumblebee

On July 15th, 100 GE ECLPers (Experienced Commercial Leadership Program) descended on Domus for a second year to clean, dust, move, rake, polish, AND organize. A project not for the faint of heart was to clean-up our chaotic store room of over 10,000 donated books. The week before school, teachers perused the stacks—organized by school and subject level—to build their classroom libraries. Ten people touching the lives of hundreds of kids. Priceless.

Thank you to Domus' own director of SPED, Michelle Ihrig, for the fun clip used to entice teachers to the bookroom.

If You're Not the Retiring Sort

Jeff Neubert, a retired Citibank executive, decided he needed to find a home for his considerable energies and talents. He heard Mike Duggan speak and was impressed (of course); but before committing to Domus, Jeff wanted to make sure we lived up to our claims. For five weeks over the summer he spent two mornings a week volunteering as a teacher's assistant in a classroom of second and third graders. Like all great volunteers he did what was needed—and had a blast. Results? Jeff is volunteering weekly at Trailblazers and wants to introduce Domus to his bridge buddies.

Domus Summer Camp

Domus operated a summer camp, in partnership with Person-to-Person to help 100 high-risk youth have a great full-day camp experience with academics in the morning and fun camp activities after lunch.

Domus volunteer Terry Dinan made this great video for us highlighting some fun camp moments. Thanks, Terry!
